"HEAVIEST RAID OF THE WAR"

DUISBURG, the great inland port of Germany, was, on Wednesday night, the chief target of what is described by the R.A.F. as Bomber Command's "heaviest attack of the war." Thirty-four aircraft were lost.

The British Air Ministry communiqué stated:—"Visibility was good, and preliminary reports indicate heavy damage." It was the sixtieth raid on Duisburg, which is at the confluence of the Rhine and the Ruhr. It is a vital German centre of communications, and has a population of 450,000. The last raid on Duisburg—on April 27—was the most concentrated attack ever made by Bomber Command up to that date.

Over 1,500 tons of high explosive and incendiary bombs were dropped, states the British Air Ministry News Service. The number of aircraft despatched was not much above the average of heavy raids in the last three months, but the gradual substitution of four-engined for two-engined bombers has now made the normal striking force more powerful. Flak was moderate for the Ruhr, and the searchlights were baffled by the weight of the attack. A number of fighters were seen. A Stirling bomber was attacked five times near the target. Both turrets were put out of action, and the rear gunner was wounded. But the pilot got the Stirling out and he made a safe landing at the base.

The German radio stated that only a few of the 200 R.A.F. men brought down over Western Germany were able to bale out. Considerable damage was done to residential quarters, the announcer said.

Licensing Plan for Potatoes

THE Department of Agriculture has announced the names of the Dublin and District Potato Committee, which will act as sole purchasers of potatoes for Dublin and Dun Laoghaire. Representative of wholesale potato merchants in Dublin, they are Mr. S. Gold, of W. H. Lamb and Co., Ltd.; Mr. J. J. Keane, of C. Dodd and Sons; Mr. Peter Lightfoot, of J. Lightfoot and Son; Mr. J. O'Neill, of Joseph O'Neill, Son and Co., and Mr. N. Smyth.

People outside Dublin and Dun Laoghaire who have potatoes to sell should get in touch with the Committee at the Corporation Fruit Market, Mary's Lane, Dublin—telephone number Dublin 21144.

The Committee has been established by a Department of Agriculture Order, which bans the import of potatoes to Dublin and Dun Laoghaire except under licence or through the Committee. All importers of potatoes to these areas who are not dealing through the Committee or who are not sending small individual gifts (not exceeding one hundredweight) must produce at the railway or canal station from which the potatoes are consigned a copy of the licence or other authority from the Department.

People in Dublin and Dun Laoghaire, other than the Committee, to whom potatoes are consigned from outside must, when taking delivery, produce the Department's licence when requested and hand it over. Members of the Garda, and other authorised persons, are empowered to stop and search vehicles in which potatoes are carried and to obtain information from the persons in charge of the vehicles concerned. They are authorised also to inspect premises and obtain information from persons engaged in selling potatoes.

PLAN SUCCEEDING

The Department of Agriculture scheme to improve County Dublin's potato supply is succeeding. Yesterday wholesalers were able to obtain better supplies, and one last night told the Irish Times that the position next week would be "substantially improved."

There is no immediate hope, however, for a return to normal. The new Order has killed the "black market" in potatoes, from which hotel-keepers, fish-and-chip saloon proprietors and restaurateurs have been forced to buy.

Mr. G. D. Findlater, managing director, Messrs. Alex. Findlater and Co., Ltd., last night told our reporter that he had just finished a dinner which included a can of potatoes, canned three years ago, the last one remaining in his principal store—which he had carried home in his overcoat pocket. Describing the position as an absurd one, Mr. Findlater said that a potato factor in Dublin could not sell outside the city potatoes which he had bought at city prices because the selling price would be the same as that at which he had bought them.

First Step in Food Control

A potato famine in an agricultural country was so serious a reflection on Government administration that ministerial explanations and excuses could not be considered as satisfactory, said Mr. Thomas F. O'Higgins, barrister-at-law (candidate), at a Fine Gael meeting at Fairbrothers Fields, Dublin, last night. The shortage, he said, demonstrated clearly the truth of the statements by Fine Gael spokesmen over the last two years—that the Government had no idea of the manner in which a proper system of food control should be carried out. As Fine Gael speakers had pointed out, the first step in food control should be a general inventory of all the nation's stocks of supplies, so that a possible shortage could be anticipated and steps taken to counteract it before it occurs.

"Take Over Potato Stocks"

The Labour Women's Committee, representing various women's organisations in Dublin, has passed a resolution urging the Government to take over all stocks of potatoes in the twenty-six counties. In regard to distribution, community feeding centres, school meal committees, hospitals, etc., should have priority, and after that strict rationing should be introduced on a coupon basis to ensure an equal supply per head of family. Steps should be taken also to conserve the supplies, and ensure the fair distribution, of all cereals, which can be used in the place of potatoes.

Final Act in Mine Tragedy

Scenes of grief and mourning were witnessed at Kincasslagh and Annagry villages yesterday as the eighteen victims of the Annagry floating mine disaster were buried. Large crowds assembled along the funeral route as the long lines of coffins were borne to their last resting place.

Canon J. McAteer, P.P., and Fathers McGinley, Glackin and McGettigan officiated. Every household in North-West Donegal was represented. An Taoiseach, Mr. de Valera, was represented at the funeral by Deputy Cormac Breslin, who told our correspondent that the Red Cross would do everything possible to assist the stricken relatives. The National Army was represented by Major James McMonagle, and Donegal Local Defence Force by Commandant J. Cunningham.

The Safety First Association of Ireland recommends that the preparation of posters to warn people of the dangers of interfering with missiles found on beaches should be undertaken by the Government. From now on children will be visiting coastal places in large numbers, and if adults do not exercise proper care there is a danger of another tragedy.

Sir Basil Brooke in London

Sir Basil Brooke, the Northern Ireland Premier, accompanied by Mr. R. Gransden, Secretary to the Cabinet, left Belfast last night for London, where he will meet British Cabinet Ministers to-day. He is expected back in Belfast to-morrow.

Taoiseach on Conscription in the North

—Commons Question

Sir W. Davison (Conservative, S. Kensington) asked the British Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs in the House of Commons yesterday whether he could now inform the House of the nature of the representations made by Mr. de Valera with regard to the introduction of conscription in Northern Ireland, what were the grounds put forward by Mr. de Valera in support, and whether he was aware that the failure to introduce conscription in Northern Ireland, as requested by the Ulster Government, was largely responsible for the unemployment now existing in Ulster?

Mr. Emrys Evans, Under Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs, said—As regards the first two parts of the question, the substance of the representations made on behalf of the Eire Government in 1941 is contained in a lengthy statement made by Mr. de Valera in the Dail on May 26, 1941. I am placing the full text of this statement in the Library of the House. As regards the last part of the question, I am not aware of the grounds for this suggestion, but the matter is one for the consideration of the Home Secretary.

Sir W. Davison—In view of the great services by Northern Ireland to this country and the United Nations, as testified by the Prime Minister in his letter to Mr. Andrews, can you say why the representations of the Ulster Government about conscription have been disregarded in view of Mr. de Valera's desire not to have it?

Professor Savory (U., Belfast University)—Surely the twice repeated unanimous representations of Northern Ireland are entitled to more weight than the representations of a neutral country.

Mr. Stokes (Lab., Ipswich)—Is there anything to prevent people in Northern Ireland enlisting?

Mr. Churchill To Address Congress

Mr. Churchill and President Roosevelt, and the British and American staffs, continued their talks, the object of which is believed by many political observers to be the planning of a two-front world offensive, says Reuter's Special Correspondent in Washington.

The British Premier is addressing Congress next Wednesday at 5.30 p.m. (Dublin time), but he is not expected to deal at great length with the Tunisian campaign. He may look forward and portray in general terms the might of the coming offensive. Washington observers are also looking to Mr. Churchill's address to provide some clue to the significance of the rôle of Field-Marshal Sir Archibald Wavell, Commander-in-Chief in India in the present conferences.

The talks between the British Staff chiefs and their American counterparts are being conducted amid the deepest secrecy. If the conferences between the President and Mr. Churchill are at all prolonged an interim report may be issued on their progress, but it is more likely that a detailed statement will come at the end.—(Reuter.)

TRAVELLED BY SEA

Mr. Churchill travelled to America by sea, Mr. Stephen Early, White House Secretary, announced in Washington last night. The Prime Minister and President Roosevelt held several personal conferences to-day, Mr. Early added.—(Reuter.)

Crew's Gallantry

The Most Rev. Dr. McNeely, Bishop of Raphoe, at the Royal National Lifeboat Institute Hall, Letterkenny, yesterday, presented the Institute's gold, silver and bronze medal and medals awarded by Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands to the crew of the Arranmore lifeboat for conspicuous gallantry displayed when they rescued eighteen of the crew of the Dutch vessel, Stolwijk, in December, 1940. The Netherlands Government was represented by Mynheer I. R. A. Weenink, Consul-General for the Netherlands.

The crew of the Arranmore lifeboat who received the awards were:—Coxswain J. Boyle and Messrs Teague Ward, Philip Boyle, Philip Byrne, Neil Byrne, Joseph Rodgers, Patrick O'Donnell, Brian Gallagher.

Mynheer Weenink, praising the bravery of the Arranmore crew, said their gallant action was one of the most heroic in the history of the Lifeboat Institution in Great Britain and Ireland.

Many Bonus Claims

Applications for Standard Wage and Bonus Orders were made on behalf of the following at yesterday's sitting of the Wages Advisory Tribunal:—Motor van drivers and horse van drivers employed by Messrs. A. B. Brennan and Co., Ltd., bakers, Arklow; part-time nurses employed by Comhlucht Siuicre Eireann Teo at the company's factories in Carlow, Mallow, Thurles and Tuam; chief electricians at the four factories, and clerical staff at the company's head office in Clare street, Dublin.

Aiding Post-war Europe

—Senate Debate

WHAT information had we here as to what was going to happen in the war? The resolution and the way it is being treated is ridiculous, said Mr. de Valera, in the Senate yesterday, when a motion sponsored by Senator P. F. Baxter was agreed to expressing the opinion that the Government should keep in close touch with Governments and organisations abroad engaged on schemes for post-war economic recovery, so as to ensure that plans might be made for increasing agricultural production to enable Eire to make the largest possible contribution towards the re-establishment of normal conditions in Europe after the war.

Mr. DE VALERA said this country would be ready and willing to assist in every way, because the Irish people sincerely sympathised with the suffering people on the continent.

CATTLE FIGURES

This country, he said, could contribute little towards the restoration of the cattle population of Europe, and there was not much point in Eire taking an active part in conferences dealing with that question.

CLOTHING COUPONS

THE "Irish Times" learns that there will be an alteration in the value of clothing coupons as and from June 1 next. During the next coupons year less rationed clothes may be purchased.

Such conferences published full reports of their transactions, and there was nothing to prevent people here from knowing what was being done.

Senator BAXTER said that he had hoped that the Taoiseach would have enlightened the House on what the Government was doing in the matter. Instead he had left them in the same darkness as before.

Mr. DE VALERA asked did the Senator not know that we had representatives in Washington, in Britain and on the Continent. What did he think that these representatives were doing? Surely I am not here, he said, to waste my time telling the House something that they know, or can easily find out.

NATION'S DUTY

Senator BAXTER expressed the view that they could promulgate an agricultural policy in this country to increase the live-stock population by 100 per cent.

Senator THE McGILLICUDDY OF THE REEKS expressed the view that it lay with the Government to urge their claim to participation in any planning that might be initiated abroad, and the Government should tell the people what measure of success they had attained.

Professor JOHNSTON said that if agriculture here were properly developed they could feed their own people on half of the produce of the soil, leaving the other half for export. One way in which they could contribute to Europe's post-war problem was by the export of breeding stock.

Air Offensive on Orel Bulge

The Russian air offensive against German positions in the Orel bulge and the Ukraine, now in its twelfth day, shows no sign of slackening, says Reuter's Moscow correspondent. In the last 24 hours Bryansk, Orel, and the German bases in the Ukraine have been again heavily pounded by long-range bombers in a series of methodical attacks.

In the Kuban General Tulenev's guns are pounding the German defences north-east of Novorossisk, and infantry are probing for a weak spot for a general assault. From the high mountains to the plain behind the port of Anapa shock troops are fighting grim battles inside wedges in the German line. In one sector they have captured a hill of strategic importance. The Germans counter-attacked and won it back, but later the Russians retook and held it.

Russian troops have forged ahead and thrown the Germans out of several positions north-east of Novorossisk, said Moscow radio last night. One Soviet unit in the Kuban valley penetrated into the rear and wiped out 200 Germans.—(Reuter.)

WARSAW BOMBED

Moscow radio reported last night that on Wednesday night Soviet long-range aircraft raided the railway junction of Warsaw. German military trains, munition dumps and armament stores were bombed, as well as lines and station installations of the railway station at Warsaw and its suburb of Praga. On the right bank of the Vistula explosions were observed. Soviet aircraft suffered no losses.

LAST ROUND-UP BY ALLIES IN TUNISIA

40,000 PRISONERS TAKEN BY BRITISH ON WEDNESDAY

BRITISH and French units were completing the round-up of the last Tunisian pockets of Axis troops last night, as Berlin broadcast a statement from Herr Hitler's Headquarters that Axis resistance was at an end in North Africa. The statement said that General von Arnim's Armies had "succumbed to the lack of supplies and not to the onslaught of the enemy."

It was stated last night that British troops had taken 40,000 prisoners on Wednesday, making a total since April 22 of 100,000. It is thought likely that the total will number between 150,000 and 170,000.

The war has ended, and there is no longer the continual rumble of the big guns, the endless raids by Allied aircraft, and the hundred-and-one things that go to make war a noisy business, telegraphs Reuter's Special Correspondent at Allied Headquarters in North Africa. Vast graveyards of wrecked Axis war material, food dumps, prisoners straggling in in long columns along the dusty road, and the final mopping up of a few pockets of resistance are all that remain now.

British forces took 40,000 prisoners on Wednesday, making their total since the attack on Djebel Bou Aoukas on April 22 over 100,000. French troops captured another 22,000 prisoners. It is likely that the total will be between 150,000 and 175,000, possibly nearer the latter. Of these, fully two-thirds are Germans.

Axis forces on the Eighth Army front were still resisting stubbornly on Wednesday morning, and even launched counter-attacks against the First French Division. A strong attack by bombers of the Desert Air Force brought about their final surrender. This soon induced the Axis to ask for terms. Tanks of the 6th Armoured Division, pressing down the coast from the north, then joined up with the Eighth Army.

ANDERSON'S PRAISE

Reuter's Special Correspondent, at the First Army Headquarters, North Africa, telegraphing last night, said that General Von Arnim split his tank forces because he could not decide where the Allied punch was coming. This proved his undoing. But the real reason for the victory was the swift and heavy blow which drove through the German defences like a knife on the Medjez sector. General Anderson, Commander of the First Army, told war correspondents this at his headquarters when he disclosed the full story of the past week.

"The victory is one of the greatest in British military history," he said. British tanks, in their race south from Tunis, he said, did magnificent work, though they had to fight a hard battle at Hammam. The Germans had machine-gun nests and snipers in streets, houses and in small buildings. In the moonlight British tank columns raced through five or six parallel streets of the town towards the sea.

Subsequently Anderson ordered the tanks to advance up both sides of the Cape Bon peninsula. They covered 56 miles, with many little "scraps," in 18 hours. The Germans tried to get away in boats and rafts, but the tanks hurled shells upon them as they put to sea, and flags made of handkerchiefs were hoisted in boats and rafts, whose occupants quickly returned to the shore to surrender. The Americans, said General Anderson, had fought magnificently.

SURRENDER TERMS

Surprised by the speed of the British advance at his headquarters in the St. Marie du Zit zone, 28 miles south of Tunis, General Von Arnim sent emissaries to General Anderson to ask for surrender terms, says Reuter's Correspondent with the First Army. He was told that the terms were unconditional surrender, destruction of war material and munitions to cease, all weapons to be handed over undamaged, together with detailed plans of Axis minefields.

General Arnim refused to sign these terms. He declared that he could not accept them, and, if he did, he would hesitate to communicate them to his men He was captured by men of the Fourth Indian Division, and later driven to First Army headquarters. His last message to the Axis High Command has fallen into Allied hands. He said:—"I report that the order to defend Tunisia to the last cartridge has been carried out."

OTHER GENERALS

A number of other German Generals and an Italian General were also brought in to First Army Headquarters. Marshal Messe, Commander of the Italian battle group in the south, informed the Allies that he would surrender to no one but his old enemy—the Eighth Army. This was arranged.

Count Calvi di Bergolo, son-in-law of the King of Italy, is reported to have been fighting in Messe's formation. An unconfirmed Associated Press report from Allied Headquarters yesterday stated that he had surrendered to the Eighth Army.

Morocco radio reported last night that General von Arnim would be transferred to Algiers.

FUEHRER'S MESSAGE

A special communiqué from Herr Hitler's Headquarters last night stated, says Reuter:—

"The heroic struggle of the German and Italian formations in Africa has to-day found its honourable end. The last groups of resistance fighting around Tunis for days without food or water had to cease fighting after using up their entire ammunition. They have finally succumbed to the lack of supplies, not to the onslaught of an enemy who had frequently to recognise the superiority of our arms in this theatre of war also.

"All the same, the African fighters of Germany and Italy have fully accomplished the task sent to them. By their resistance, which contested every inch of ground in months of embittered struggle, they tied down in North Africa strongest enemy forces, and inflicted on him heaviest losses in men and material. The relief thus given to other fronts, and the time gained, were of the highest benefit to the command of the Axis Powers."

Tunisia, Not the End, Attlee Says

Mr. Attlee, British Deputy Prime Minister, announcing in the House of Commons yesterday the end of the North Africa campaign, declared: "North Africa is ours, but its occupation is not the end in itself. It is no longer a vulnerable area to be defended, but a forward base whence will be launched at the right moment further attacks on the Axis, so that in the fulness of time, as the result of the blows of the United Nations, Hitler, like the German Generals in Tunisia, will be forced to accept unconditional surrender."

The end had come more swiftly and more completely than would have been anticipated. On Wednesday General Alexander reported that German prisoners, driving their own vehicles, formed a dense column on the road from Grombalia to Medjez-el-Bab. Over 150,000 prisoners have been taken and a great mass of equipment—more than 1,000 guns, 250 tanks and many thousands of motor vehicles.

ARMY DESTROYED

"Thus in less than a week a great army, strongly placed in good positions, has been not only beaten, but completely destroyed, and the continent of Africa has been cleared entirely.

The battle which has now been concluded will be regarded as a classical example of the military art, and the honours of this great triumph are shared by the fighting men of the British Commonwealth and Empire, of the United States, and of France, whose troops have revived her ancient glory.

"This campaign, which has driven the enemy 1,700 miles across a continent, culminating in a great battle and the complete destruction of a mighty army, will stand out in history as a magnificent achievement. We may rejoice and give thanks An announcement as to how public expression can be given to this will be made in due course."

More Bacon This Month

TEN per cent. more bacon is being allocated to wholesalers and retailers during the present month.

"Substitute for Conscription" in North

In the Northern Ireland House of Commons yesterday, Mr. J. Beattie (Lab., Pottinger) raised the question of a Labour Exchange Order which, it was stated, gave priority to ex-Servicemen in the allocation of work, and asked if such an Order was in accordance with the policy of the Ministry of Labour.

Someone with a lot of conceit and little brains, Mr. Nixon (Indpt. Unionist) declared, had thought that the Order would be a good substitute for conscription.

The Minister (Mr. W. Grant) said that he had discovered only that day that a certain arrangement had been made. He was not, he said, going to break it, as an individual, but he would consult with other colleagues about it.

Thanksgiving in Britain

Special thanksgiving prayers for the Allied victory in North Africa will be offered in churches throughout Great Britain on Sunday, which, with the approval of King George, has been set aside as Home Guard Day. Wherever possible, victory bells will peal. The time and place of a national service of thanksgiving for the victory will be announced later it was officially stated last night. The Archbishop of Canterbury has written a new prayer for use on Sunday, and has issued a special message in regard to Tunisia.

It is understood that a resolution of thanksgiving will be moved in both Houses of the British Parliament on the next sitting day.

India will celebrate a "Tunisia Day" on Friday, May 21, as a public holiday, the Viceroy announced in a broadcast yesterday from New Delhi.—(Reuter.)

Berlin Radio on Invasion

The German Radio broadcast last night a detailed discussion of the prospect of an Allied invasion of Southern Europe.

"With the conquest of Tunisia," the announcer said, "all North Africa has become a base for the much-discussed invasion of Europe by the British and Americans. That does not mean yet that the next invasion attempt must necessarily start from Africa. But there are various reasons for the view that it will be started from here, and possibly soon.

"In the neutral Press, and also in some English papers, the view is expressed that a longish pause may be interspersed between the end of the Tunisian campaign and the opening of an attack on Europe. Reasons given are that British and American troops in Tunisia must be regrouped, brought up to strength, and given time for rest; and, secondly, the Tunisian harbours must first be restored." This view was only "conditionally correct," the statement continued, reiterating Berlin's claim that the First and Eighth British Armies and the Fifth American Army had suffered "noticeable losses" since May 3.

LOSSES REPLACED

"But we must remember that Allied losses during the former rounds of the Tunisian contest were equally large, if not considerably larger, and each time only a few days was required to replace these considerable losses from the inexhaustible reserves of men and material which were already on the spot, as we know now. Everything suggests that the same may happen again now. It may be one week at most before the three mentioned Allied armies have regained their full fighting strength. As far as the Tunisian ports are concerned, the Allied High Commands have not only ample technical troops at their disposal to restore them, but also have the entire civilian population of Tunisia as a labour reserve.

"There is, therefore, no serious obstacle to the employment of the three Allied Armies for an attack on the southern flank of Europe. But even if the improbable event of an immobilisation of these armies for a longer period is assumed, an immediate attack on Europe would by no means be outside the bounds of possibility; for in Algeria and Morocco, and to some extent also in Egypt, there are still large masses of Allied troops which have been concentrated there from the outset for other purposes than those of the Tunisian campaign. An immediate Allied attack on Europe from the Mediterranean area, or, at first, an attack on the islands protecting Europe's southern flank—Sardinia, Sicily, Crete and the Dodecanese—is, therefore, technically possible."

MR. O'KELLY REGRETS

In the Dail yesterday, Mr. SEAN T. O'KELLY, Minister for Finance, said that during the course of his reply to the debate on the second stage of the Finance Bill in the House on Wednesday he (the Minister) made use of some remarks in reference to Deputy Hughes (F.G.) which were not proper and which should not have been made. He regretted having made them, and would be glad if they could be withdrawn. Having been spoken, they could not be withdrawn, but he wished they could.

Mr. Dillon's Bread Query

Mr. JAMES DILLON, in a supplementary question in the Dail yesterday, asked: "Are nursing mothers and young infants to continue to suffer from the failure to put calcium in the bread?"

Dr. WARD, Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister for Local Government, said that there was a great difference of opinion on this subject, although such measures had been taken in Britain.

Mr. DILLON—Is the Minister aware that his views are antediluvian, or, at least, that they have been abandoned five years ago?

Dr. WARD—The deputy is misinformed.

Doctor on Receiving Charge in Gas Co. Case

IN the Dublin Gas Company case, in the Dublin District Court yesterday, Dr. John Morris, 20 Anglesea road, Dublin, was again charged with receiving 60 gallons of petrol owned by the Gas Company and given him by one of the other defendants.

Evidence of his arrest was given by Detective Officer P. McMorrow.

William J. Gray, general manager, and Harold Clifford Hoskins, former transport superintendent, are charged with conspiracy, with stealing and with receiving 5,846 gallons of the Gas Company's petrol, and with exporting letters, wine and spirits other than by post. Patrick Doran (43), Cashel road, is charged with aiding and abetting.

Inspector N. Reynolds said that when he interviewed Dr. Morris at Mercer's Hospital on March 11, he denied obtaining petrol from Hoskins. Morris made a statement that he had known Hoskins for seven years, but emphatically denied allegations of obtaining petrol. On May 4, at the Bridewell, Morris was charged with receiving petrol and made a statement, in which he said that he met Hoskins at Mercer's Hospital. They discussed the possibility of perfecting an apparatus for collapsing a lung. He was invited to Hoskins's house. About the end of 1940 Hoskins told him he would be able to help him with some of his own petrol, as he (Morris) found it hard to get fuel. He told him that this was a special kind of petrol made by the company, of which he (Hoskins) was allowed a certain amount, some of which he did not use. He (Morris) went to a garage in Barrow street, where he got about 60 gallons between December, 1941, and November, 1942. Since then he had got none. He did not pay for the petrol, and was not asked to do so.

Dr. Morris was remanded on bail until Tuesday.

Fergus Foley, Tritonville road, Gas Company mechanic, said that in July, 1942, Grey gave him a letter for Hoskins, which was addressed "F. F. Dickens, Esq., Mill Hill House, Lancs." On another occasion Grey gave him a letter to bring to Captain Smith, of the company's boat, Glenbride. He got four letters, one for each captain, in Mr. Hoskins's office.

He brought them as a servant of the company. One letter was addressed to Lord Hyndley, St. John's road, Buckingham Gardens, London. He had nothing to do with wines or parcels. Once when he was in Hoskin's office, about July, 1942, Doran was there. He (witness) saw there a brown paper parcel. Doran said it was a bottle of wine which was being sent to Lord Hyndley. Once he said to Doran that he did not wish to carry any more letters nor anything more to do with them.

Francis McSherry, Waterloo road, Dublin, lorry driver of the Gas Company, gave evidence of taking four of five parcels and some small boxes with bottles of wine from Barrow street to the ships on the instructions of Mr. Hoskins or Doran. He also got letters from Miss Walker on the instructions of Hoskins or Doran—generally one letter, sometimes two. He saw Hoskins take them out of one envelope and put them into another addressed to some captain.

The case was adjourned until Monday next. The defendants are on bail.

Railway's Appeal To 'Bus Users

TRAVEL by 'bus as seldom as possible. Use the trains whenever they offer an alternative service. Carry the minimum amount of baggage.

These three admonitions are addressed to the public by the Great Northern Railway. They will be the subject of a broadcast to be given to-night from Radio Eireann by an official of the railway company—at the request of the Minister for Industry and Commerce.

The road transport services, states the company, which have been seriously curtailed for some time past, have now reached a very critical stage owing to the shortage of fuel, tyres, spares, etc. The 'buses should be left for those who depend solely on road transport, or serious hardship will result in cases of those living remote from the railways. "Imagine their feelings," said a G.N.R. executive yesterday, "on seeing a 'bus full of passengers, some of whom could have travelled by train, flash past and leave them standing by the roadside."

You are asked, if you must use 'buses, to select those which will cause the least inconvenience to those who must travel by 'bus to and from business daily. Although trains carry a greater load than 'buses, it is not to be assumed that their capacity is unlimited. No improvement is likely in road and rail services during the summer, and no extra facilities will be given for visiting the seaside on Sundays. Sunday rail services will be operated by railcars.

Preference

"I do not think that there is any practical solution of the difficulty. I can see no way of bringing in a scheme of preference." This was stated by Mr. Lemass, Minister for Industry and Commerce, in the Senate yesterday, replying to a discussion on a motion by Senator Counihan, which was withdrawn, asking the Minister to prepare a scheme, in consultation with the railway authorities, so as to ensure preferential treatment for those travelling long distances on trains and 'buses.

Mr. Lemass said that he had very great sympathy with the cattle traders, and other business men, in finding transport accommodation when they found it necessary to move around the country. Railway officials, he said, would find it impossible to regulate any such system. When an attempt was made one Christmas to limit travel, the result was that hardly anybody travelled at all. If the Irish Cattle Traders' Association, or any similar body, would care to put up suggestions, these suggestions would be very carefully considered, but, he thought, when they got down finally to the problem, they would realise the difficulties.

Senator Counihan, in moving the motion, which was seconded by Sir John Keane, had stated that his principal concern was for the people engaged in the cattle trade. Fairs would not wait for these men.

The Senate adjourned until next Wednesday.

TEACHING IN IRISH INQUIRY

AN inquiry, at some indefinite date, into the system of teaching through Irish, was virtually promised by Mr. DERRIG, Minister for Education, in the Dail yesterday, winding-up the three-day debate on the Education estimates, in which about 90 per cent. of the discussion had been on the position of Irish in the elementary schools. There would be great difficulty in getting a competent commission of inquiry, he said, as it would be difficult to find people who knew Irish well who were not committed to any particular scheme, and who would be able to assess the value of the work being done in the schools. "However, it is in the general interests of Irish," he said, "and I am not opposed to an inquiry. I don't think it should be set up now, but I shall attend to the matter, and give it every possible consideration."

Another important point in the Minister's speech was his announcement of plans for the holding of the largest examination ever held in Ireland—involving about 50,000 primary school children and the use of nearly every primary school in Ireland as an examination centre. He was happy to say that the managers were keenly interested in the examination, and he would appeal to all concerned to co-operate in making this big experiment.

A HARDY ANNUAL

Turning to what he described as that "hardy annual," the question of teaching through Irish, he said deputies had objected to the term he used some time ago, "waging linguistic war." They should not forget that linguistic war had been waged in this island for 700 years by the invading language using every possible weapon against the native language. There were now over 9,000 teachers qualified to give instruction through Irish, or two-thirds of the total number. He was informed by the inspectors that there were numbers of schools in which more teaching through Irish could be advantageously done without any detriment to child education. The return to the use of English in the higher classes, when the children had been taught earlier in Irish, was a great blow to the language.

All the Opposition deputies who took part in the preceding debate expressed their grave doubts about the wisdom of the policy of teaching through Irish.

Mr. FIONAN LYNCH, who was formerly a national teacher, asked for a modification of the ban on married women teachers, so that it would not apply to women who became teachers before the ban was imposed, and also asked for a revision of pensions of old teachers.

This plea for old teachers was also supported by Mr. Dillon and Mr. Hickey, but the Minister replied that he could not do anything in the matter.

PETROL

THE April petrol allowances for normal transport purposes to the Great Southern Railways was 46,000 gallons, and to the Great Northern Railway 9,800 gallons, said Mr. Lemass, Minister for Supplies, answering Mr. P. J Fogarty (F.F.) in the Dail yesterday.

PETROL "CUTS" RESTORED

The full petrol allowances on the April basis will be restored to licence-holders who had their quota cut recently, it is announced by the Department of Supplies.

This means that many permitted motorists who suffered a drastic reduction in their supplies or were deprived entirely of petrol will be able to obtain the normal quantities available before the cuts were imposed two weeks ago.

Deliveries on the normal basis to spirit retailers and commercial consumers will be resumed by the oil distributing companies from Monday next.

Good News For Tennis Players

(By a Tennis Correspondent.)

THAT the Irish tennis season will proceed on more or less normal lines was assured by the announcement of a successful experiment in the reclaiming of used balls. A process of re-inflating and re-covering them has proved to be so successful that ample supplies from all the used material sent in to the Dunlop Company will be available from now onwards. The balls were tried out recently by some of the leading players, and proved to be almost as good as brand new ones. All that is necessary now is to ensure a constant supply of used balls being returned to the company, which should be a matter of no great difficulty.

This will be a splendid piece of news for players all over Ireland. It means that the Irish Open Championships, the second oldest tournament in the world, will be continued, and that the East of Ireland at Lansdowne, the Co. Wicklow at Bray, and Elm Park in September may be regarded as certain to take place again. The news came too late to permit the Irish Hard Court Championships being run at the usual time in May, but there seems to me to be no reason why these titles should not be competed for at the Elm Park autumn meeting. After all, it is not essential to hold the Irish hard court championships at the beginning of the season; they can have just as much importance as a wind-up to the campaign.

YACHTING

The opening series of races of the Dublin Bay Sailing Club were held last evening. In the 21 Footers' Match Geraldine (Dr. R. A. Wright) won by 1 min. 15 secs. from Maureen (F. Odlum), with Innisfallen third, and Estelle last.

Bobolink (J. J. McCabe) won by 25 secs. from Silver Moon (J. H. Guilford) in the 17 Ft. Class, in which Eileen, last year's crack, could only finish third.

Ruby (D. Slator) was first home of five Mermaids, Daphne (K. Daniels) being second and Mantis third.

Only three started in the Cruisers' Handicap, and Sonia (P. M. and D. Purcell) came home 9 mins. ahead of Mercia (W. J. Smallridge).

Interesting Cricket Programme

THE league programme to-morrow will take on an added importance as the last tuning-up before the first round of the Senior Cup, which takes place on Saturday week. The clubs will endeavour to turn out at full strength to-morrow, and, unless the same bad luck as last Saurday is experienced, we should see an inereating series of games.

Main interest will be divided between Rathmines and Sydney parade, where Leinster and Pembroke are at home to Clontarf and Y.M.C.A., respectively. The pitches are likely to favour the bowlers, and the batsmen are likely to have to fight for their runs.

Leinster will be without E. A. Ingram, whose brother, J. K. Ingram, takes his place. Against a Clontarf team which includes J. W. Hill, Leinster will have a hard stuggle, and unless some of the batting mainstays, such as Lambert, Connell, Neville or Desmond, get going a Clontarf victory is quite on the cards.

Now that M. Williams has developed into such a steady and, at times, dangerous slow bowler, Pembroke's attack is one to respect on anything but a perfect pitch, and the scoring at Sydney parade is likely to be low. Heartened by their opening win over Leinster, Y.M.C.A. will make a strong bid for the points; but their batting is inconsistent and liable to break down.

Both Trinity and Merrion got off to a poor start a fortnight ago, and here again bowlers are likely to take wickets cheaply. On paper the Merrion batting is quite sound, but several of their men near the top of the order seem to have lost the ability to make runs, and unless they recover soon Merrion may be in for a rather poor season. The Trinity men have been hard at work at the nets, but the team needs a lot of stiffening in the middle of the batting order, and the attack requires the maximum support from the field. A Merrion win seems the most likely result.

Phœnix, at full strength, should account for Civil Service, who are in some straits through the loss of their leading batsman, V. J. Holloway.

COST OF PLAYING IN THE BARTON CUP

By J. P. ROONEY.

THE seaside clubs, as a rule, seldom go far in the Barton Cup competition, and the 4-1 defeat of the holders, Clontarf, by Portmarnock in the second round on Wednesday was, therefore, all the more surprising. St. Anne's, another of the eight survivors, likewise are going strongly, as evidenced by their 3-2 defeat of Royal Dublin. Woodbrook, who won last year's final with Clontarf after a replay, got the better of a strong Foxrock team by the odd match, two finishing at the home hole, one going to the 19th and the other two to the 20th—one of the longest-drawn-out ties within memory. Howth, a club that in recent years has played a notable part in the tournament, went out in the first round in a remarkable match with Royal Dublin, who won all five games, and Castle, winners a couple of years ago, were eliminated by Newlands. The last eight are:—St. Anne's, Carlow, Portmarnock, Skerries, Woodbrook, Grange, Newlands and Killiney.

The popularity of the Cup with the playing members of the Clubs remains as great as ever, despite the exceptionally difficult conditions under which it is being played, but it is extremely doubtful if it would have been possible to hold it last year or this but for the wisdom displayed by the Leinster Branch in drawing the clubs in a way that reduced travelling to the lowest possible minimum.

There are, however, club committees who are not quite so enthusiastic as formerly about carrying on the competition, basing their opposition on the ground of the expense incurred. One officer responsible for the finances of his club expressed himself strongly on the point. When his club went to a final, not so many years ago, it cost the club more than £100, and on another recent occasion, when his team did not get quite so far, the expenses were a little more than £50. To that, he stated, had to be added the cost to the players of travelling three or four times to "away" clubs for practice rounds, their teas or suppers, caddies' fees, "the 19th," etc. Since then the cost of everything has been doubled. For that reason he would, for the duration of the emergency, abandon the tournament. It is hard enough (he said) to keep clubs going at present. Nowadays, it is a very serious matter to drop even £50, to say nothing of £100, on one competition. The members, however, insist on the clubs entering for it, but when the balance sheet reveals a loss of a couple of hundred pounds the officers and committee get it hot at the annual meeting from those who seemingly forget that half the deficit was incurred on needless travelling and wasteful entertainment of visiting teams and their officials.

The Phœnix To Run

MR. FRED S. MYERSCOUGH'S unbeaten colt, The Phœnix, whose three successes last year included the £1,500 Phœnix Plate, will make his début as a three years old in the first of the Irish classics, the "Irish Two Thousand Guineas," to be decided over a mile at the Curragh to-morrow week. Mr. Myerscough has been good enough to supply me, writes our Racing Correspondent, with this item of news, which will be received with interest by racegoers generally, in view of the outstanding ability shown last season by the son of Chateau Bouscaut and Fille de Poete.

The ability of The Phœnix to stay the Curragh mile, of course, must be taken on trust, for his three races were decided over five furlongs, but, as he has wintered well, it can be assumed that he has made the normal progress in regard to stamina.

It promises to be an exceptionally interesting race, for among those likely to oppose The Phœnix is Mr. J. McVey's Colombo colt, Solferino, who created a very favourable impression when he won in smooth style over a mile at Phœnix Park last week. Major D. McCalmont's Carlist is another who was staying on at the finish of the Scurry Handicap (6f. 63yds.) which he won at the Curragh on Lincolnshire day, and he is likely to be one of the most fancied candidates.

The Conyngham Lodge stable can be represented by Solar Prince and Magic Bridge, while, should the highly-thought-of Crackerjack, from the Heath stable, Camfield and Sun Arab also go to the post, The Phœnix is likely to be fully tested.

Irish racing always has been fortunate in the number of wealthy patrons it attracts, but there is always room for another. Mr. S. W. Swann, of Northampton, incidentally, also a breeder of Great Danes, is a newcomer who has been fortunate in early experiencing the satisfaction of winning ownership. He was particularly elated by the success of his colt, Camerlone, in the Tipperary Cup, and it is his intention considerably to augment the number of the horses he has in training under the care of M. A. Byrne at Castleknock.

Newmarket Postponed

An R.A.F. 'plane which crashed on Newmarket Racecourse on Wednesday night has caused the postponement for a week of the first two of the season's classic races, the 2,000 Guineas and 1,000 Guineas. The damage to the course will take some days to repair. The meeting, which was to have taken place on Tuesday and Wednesday next, has been postponed until the following Tuesday and Wednesday, May 25th and 26th, when the whole of the races fixed for the original dates will be run.

Tattersall's Committee has decided that all bets made on any of the races stand.

The occupants of the 'plane were killed when it crashed near Devil's Ditch.

Sapling Sold for 200 Guineas

What is thought to be a record price for an unraced sapling was paid for Sandycroft when the kennel of the late Mr. Joe Shaw was auctioned at Celtic Park, Belfast, yesterday. Sandycroft (Dark Invader—Sneem) changed hands for 200 guineas, and was purchased by Mr. T. Ryan. Mr. J. Roberts (Wexford) bought Edna's Star for 130 guineas, and Mr. T. Morris (Clonmel) went to 75 guineas for Terry's Star. Top price (210 guineas) was paid for Sweet Edna, a winner in fast time over the Celtic sprint distance last season. Details:—

400 GUINEAS FOR SWEEPING FAIRY

Sweeping Fairy, by Floating Fairy—Coming Sweeper, who won four out of her five races on the Limerick track this season, fetched top price of 400 guineas at the greyhound sale held by Mr. A. J. Sexton at Limerick yesterday, the purchaser being Mr. J. Savage. Owners generally were seeking big prices, and many lots passed out unsold, among them Ballinvally Lad, for which 350 guineas was refused.

Schools' Unions Golf

Fourteen of the Association of Schools' Unions competed yesterday at Dollymount for the Royal Dublin G.C. Challenge Cup and prizes presented by the Union for the best nett and best gross. The holders were Mountjoy School.

The competition was followed by the customary dinner, at which Mr. Keith Meares (Portora Royal School), President of the Association, presided, and among the guests were—Major W. N. Foster, D.S.O., President, Royal Dublin; Mr. E. A. Dwyer, captain; Mr. John F. Hudson, hon. treasurer; Mr. Leo J. Smyth (Union of Irish Schools), Mr. P. J. Blunden (St. Mary's College), Mr. John Roy (Milltown G.C.), and Mr. J. J. Hickey (past captain, Royal Dublin).

Mr. Meares proposed the toast of the Royal Dublin Club, the Union of Irish Schools, and the Guests. As a member of the Portora Union he, on behalf of that Union, expressed their pleasure at being members of the Association of Irish Schools' Unions, which mostly was composed of the schools of the South. He thanked the Royal Dublin Club for again placing its magnificent links at their disposal, and for the club's continued interest in the Association.

Mr. Dwyer, responding, said that the Association and similar golfing bodies, which were doing such excellent work for the game, always would be heartily welcomed by the Royal Dublin Club.

DUBLIN UNITED SOCIETIES

The 22nd annual general meeting was held recently, when the report of the hon. secretary and statement of accounts were unanimously adopted. Messrs. J. G. Dixon (president), and H. Thrift and Douglas Figgis (vice-presidents), were re-elected. The committee are Messrs. P. Blake, H. Legge, F. E. Jones and M. F. Collins.

The association desired to mark the occasion of the continued interest in its affairs by the president, and a presentation was made to him. Mr. Dixon suitably acknowledged.

Court Order to Airports and Stations

THE President of the High Court, Dublin, yesterday, granted, during the luncheon interval, an application of Mr. Cecil Lavery, K.C., with whom was Mr. Micks (instructed by Messrs. A. and L. Goodbody) on behalf of Mrs. Mavis Martin, New Garden, Carlow, for a conditional order of habeas corpus for the production by her husband, Colin Wilson Martin, Blackheath, London, of their ten months old child, Judith Mavis.

Leave was given to have the fact of the making of the order immediately communicated to all exit stations and airports in the country.

Mr. Lavery moved on the affidavit of Mrs. Martin, which stated that before her marriage, at the Mariners' Church, Dun Laoghaire, on September 17, 1941, it was agreed that she should reside in Ireland for the duration of the war. Her husband since had wanted to repudiate that arrangement, and matters had become so strained that correspondence between them had ceased at the beginning of the year.

HUSBAND EXCITED

Her husband arrived on the 6th inst., and because of his very excited manner she left, but returned the following morning. By Monday last his conduct had reduced her to such a state of fear that she told him that if he did not leave her house she would leave. He refused to let her out of her room, and when she did get out he seized her in the passage and forced her back. When eventually she did get out she came to Dublin.

Her father arranged then that she and her husband should meet in Dublin that day at 5.30 p.m., at her father's office in Lower Abbey street, but in the early hours of the morning she got a message from one of her maids, as a result of which she went to Carlisle Pier, Dun Laoghaire, where she found her husband about to depart on the boat for Holyhead with her child and nurse. She succeeded in delaying them until the boat had sailed.

She believed that her husband was now in such a state of mind that he would stop at nothing to have the child removed from the jurisdiction of that Court.

Mr. Lavery said that Mrs. Martin had information that her husband might try to leave Dublin by the 1.30 p.m. train for the North, and that he was making frantic efforts to get a seat in a 'plane.

Kirwan Appeal Arguments

Further arguments were heard in the appeal before the Supreme Court yesterday in Bernard Kirwan's appeal, and the further hearing was adjourned until to-day. The appeal is from the refusal by the Court of Criminal Appeal of his application for leave to appeal from his conviction of the murder of his brother Laurence, who had lived with him at Ballycloughan, Rahan, Tullamore.

Mr. Barra O Briain, for Kirwan, said that proof of a killing was the first step to the proving of a murder, and that that was the real defence. He challenged the admissibility of evidence at the trial, which tended to show that Bernard Kirwan had been in Portlaoighise Prison for a period before June, 1941. He said that evidence had been given by several local witnesses at the trial about Bernard's killing and boning pigs, and he, through his counsel, had never joined issue on that.

Mr. Murnaghan, for the Attorney-General, replying, contended that circumstantial evidence could be given in support of the matters raised in the case which must be approached on the fact of the torso being that of Laurence Kirwan, and it followed automatically from that that he was dead. There was a volume of evidence which could not be kept from any jury by any trial judge on this particular aspect of the case. Regarding the admission of evidence showing that Bernard Kirwan had been previously in prison, he said that this evidence was admissible on the ground that it was relevant to an issue before the jury

Barra O Briain, S.C., and Mr. P. J. Nugent (instructed by Messrs. R. F. Barry and Sons) for Kirwan; Mr. Murnaghan, K.C., and Mr. Hooper (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) for the Attorney-General.

£5,000 for Founding A Convent

In a reserved judgment given in the High Court, Dublin, yesterday, Mr. Justice Gavan Duffy held that a gift of a sum not exceeding £5,000 to found a convent of Perpetual Adoration at Lisnaskea, left by the will of Sister Mary de Sales (Maguire), Convent of Mercy, Castleblayney, was a valid charitable bequest.

Mr. J. P. O'Reilly (instructed by Mr. W. H. Keaney) appeared for the Very Rev. A. Canon Maguire, P.P., Castleblayney, brother and an executor of Sister de Sales; Mr. T. F. Bacon (instructed by Mr. Keaney) for Thomas A. Maguire, Lisnaskea, a nephew, another executor; and Mr. Murnaghan, K.C., and Mr. O Cuiv (instructed by Mr. B. P. McCormack) for the Attorney-General.

Mr. Justice Gavan Duffy referred to the decision of the Court of Appeal in Ireland given in another case thirty years ago, in which a bequest of £4,000 Consolidated Stock upon trust to apply the income for the exclusive benefit of the Dublin Home for Starving and Forsaken Cats had been held to be a valid charitable gift, because cats were useful to man.

DEATH OF BREEDER OF TRUSTFUL

The death, which occurred at a Dublin hospital yesterday, of Mr Thomas Brodie Bennett, of Milltown House, Bruff, Co. Limerick, removes a well-known figure in Irish racing circles. A well-known and popular landowner, he raced horses in Ireland and England, the best known of his animals probably being the steeplechaser Hawker. In his younger days he was the master of his own pack of hounds, but will be remembered best as a breeder of thoroughbreds. Amongst the horses bred by him was Trustful, the dam of the St. Leger winner, Scottish Union.

Defence in Kerry Murder Trial

OPENING the defence of Timothy Flynn (60), who is charged at the Central Criminal Court, Dublin, with the murder of his wife, Hannah, on November 16 last at their home, Kilbonane, Beaufort, Killarney, Mr. Casey, K.C., said that he intended calling specialists to prove that at the time of his wife's death the accused man was suffering from paranoi, a form of delusional insanity.

When it was learned that the foreman of the jury was ill, and would be unable to attend the trial further, Mr. Justice Overend decided to continue with the eleven-member jury.

After Superintendent B. Harte had been further cross-examined on some minor points, Mr. J. A. McCarthy, K.C., announced that that concluded the case for the prosecution.

For the defence, Mr. Casey suggested that not one word of evidence had been given to justify the accusations levelled against the moral character of Timothy Flynn. Neither had they heard anything which would suggest that he was in need of money. In fact, the State case disclosed that the alleged crime was an utterly motiveless act. Did they believe the suggestions of misconduct with his niece, Crissie O'Connor? Neither the laws of this country nor of Timothy Flynn's Church would permit his marriage with his niece, so that this suggestion as a possible motive proved self-destructive. Actually the whole corner-stone of the State's case was the testimony of Donal Leen, Flynn's farm labourer — remove it and the whole structure tumbled down like a house of cards. He submitted that Leen had proved a most unreliable witness; that his evidence was at variance in several important respects, with that of other State witnesses, and that, in justice to Flynn, they should discard it.

NO WEAPON FOUND

If blow after blow was rained on the head of the deceased woman by a heavy man, there should be a series of depressed fractures of the skull, but there was no evidence that there had been any such fractures or any injuries to the brain. No blood-stained weapon had been found.

It would be compelling evidence to assist the jury in their deliberations if they knew that the bloodstains found on Flynn's garments belonged to the same blood group as that of his wife. But they did not know that.

Mr. Casey then announced his proposal to put several specialists in the witness box to give evidence as to Flynn's mental condition.

The further hearing was adjourned until to-day.

Mr. J. A. McCarthy, K.C.; Mr. R. McLoughlin, K.C.; and Mr. T. Donovan (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) prosecuted; Mr. C. Casey, K.C., and Mr. T. K. Liston (instructed by Mr. C. Healy, solicitor, Killarney) appeared for Flynn.

A Mines Warning

A drifting mine has been observed one mile south-west of Loop Head, drifting eastward. Shipmasters and others in the Shannon area are warned accordingly. Floating objects are likely to be washed ashore on the Clare or Kerry coasts, and residents are advised strongly not to approach within 100 yards of any such object, and to report its presence without delay to the nearest Garda station.

Prisoners with Records

After a chase through Westmoreland street, College Green, Grafton street and Nassau street, Detective Officers McWilliams and Hearn captured Edward Sweeney (32), no fixed address, with £12 10/- in his pockets which he had taken from the Scotch House, Burgh quay, during the dinner hour. In the Dublin District Court yesterday, District Justice McCarthy sent Sweeney to prison for six months for the larceny of the money. Sweeney pleaded guilty.

Detective Officer McWilliams said that Sweeney had already been convicted twenty times in Ireland and England for larceny and housebreaking.

John Carr (60), Malpas street, who was stated to have fifty-five convictions already, since 1892, was sent to prison for six months for stealing a wallet containing £6 from Patrick Harvey, butcher, Aughrim street. He was charged with stealing £16 10/-, but pleaded guilty to £6, which he said was all that the wallet contained. Detective Sergeant F. Moran prosecuted.

Dun Laoghaire Will Case Settled

The part-heard suit brought by Miss Eileen Esme Phillips, Birchgrove, Kill avenue, Dun Laoghaire, to establish the will of Mr. Gerald L. Walker, nurseryman, of the same address, of which she had been appointed executrix, was settled before Mr. Justice Martin Maguire and a jury in the High Court, Dublin, yesterday.

The settlement provided for the payment of £500 to Miss Phillips on her agreeing to renounce her rights as executrix and releasing all claims against the personal estate of the late Mr. Walker, and allowing Lieut. Gerald L. Walker, Lansdowne road, Dublin, son of the late Mr. Walker, to take out letters of administration.

Mr. Justice Martin Maguire, accepting the settlement, said that the conduct of Miss Phillips throughout had been beyond reproach, as had also been the conduct of Lieut. Walker and his sister. He allowed all parties their costs.

Mr. Carson, K.C., and Mr. Cherry (instructed by Messrs. C. H. Denroche and Son), appeared for Miss Phillips; and Mr. J. M. Fitzgerald, K.C.; Mr. Walker, K.C., and Mr. Claude Sainsbury (instructed by Messrs. Martley and Barlee), for Lieut. Walker.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Dublin Fruit Market Killed.—When the Department notified the Meath Agricultural Committee that it will not be possible to provide any special allocation of sugar to genuine fruit growers for jam-making, Mr. Conlon said that meant a loss of £3,000 to the fruit growers, and meant that the Dublin market for fruit was killed.

No Racks for Civil Servants' Cycles.—The Department of Supplies has had another problem. After a year of "hard trying," the staff at Ballsbridge, Dublin, has succeeded in getting extra cycle accommodation. But, says the Civil Servant, while the shelter provides cover from the rain, there are no racks and there is no flooring.

Première Academy's Production.—"The Devil to Pay," by Brendan Smith, was presented by the Première Academy of Acting at the Carmel Hall, Aungier street, yesterday. In this, the first public production by the Academy, Caroline Pringle, Patrick Browne, Linton Stone, Vera Casey and William Carroll were outstanding.

T.D. Called On To Withdraw.—Co. Longford Old I.R.A. Comrades' Association passed a resolution calling on Mr. Erskine H. Childers, T.D., to withdraw from the Athlone-Longford constituency, because of his alleged insulting references to Old I.R.A. members. The resolution indignantly repudiated the charge that the Association was composed of disappointed pension-hunters

Awards Withheld at Feis Ceoil

Belfast choirs descended upon the Feis Ceoil yesterday and had things very much to themselves in the Male Voice Class, where they took first and second places, the only Dublin choir presenting itself (Club na Muinteoiri) having to be content with third place. In the big event for Mixed Voice Choirs, the Grosvenor Singers, that very fine choir conducted by Alice Yoakley, carried off the premier award, thus somewhat restoring the balance.

Biggest audiences of the week crowded the Metropolitan and Abbey Lecture Halls for the competitions.

While the sopranos provided a fairly good class, with the gold medal going to Belfast, the bass class was so dreadfully disappointing that Dr. Northcote withheld both the gold and silver medals. In the last event of the day a Belfast singer carried off the gold medal for baritone solo.

Results:—

Recital Programme Award for Instrumentalists (open only to cup winners and gold medallists in String Classes in past five years). Competitors to present a programme of half hour's duration suitable for broadcasting, the winner being rewarded with an engagement at a fee of eight guineas.—Won by Hugh Maguire, 42 Prussia street, Dublin, for his violin playing. Highly commended—Betty Sullivan ('cellist), Janus Gate, Sutton, Co. Dublin.

Recital Programme Award for Singing (open to cup winners and gold medallists of last three years). Competitors to present programme of songs covering twenty minutes, and the winner being offered an engagement to broadcast from Radio Eireann at a fee of eight guineas. (Nine entries.)—Won by Mrs. Molly D. Dunlop, 38 Whitebeam avenue, Clonskeagh Dublin. Runner-up—Miss Hilda Tomsohn, 142 Lower Kimmage road, Dublin.

Junior Piano (under thirteen years)—1, Brigid O'Sullivan, 5 Herbert Park, Dublin; 2, Kathleen Kiernan, 23 Mount Eden road, Donnybrook.

Bamboo Pipes (Open)—1, Dominican Convent, Sion Hill, Co. Dublin; 2, Alexandra School Team Three, Earlsfort terrace, Dublin.

Advanced Ensemble—1, Alexandra School "V" Band; 2, Alexandra School Band.

Mixed Quartet (Vocal)—No gold medal. Silver medals—Engard Quartet, c/o Mrs. Chapman, 353 Creagagh road, Belfast; runners-up, Dublin School of Singing and Speech Training, 2 Hatch street, Dublin.

Girls' Solo Singing in Irish—1, Peggy Delaney, 31 Windsor road, Rathmines (89); 2, Orna Ni Seachnaraigh, Sgoil Caitriona, Eccles street, Dublin; highly commended, Doreen Kilbride, Loretto College, St. Stephen's Green.

Boys' Solo Singing in Irish—1, Sean Henry, Wine street, Sligo; commended, Seamus Ua Cuinn Gilbert road, Dublin; Micheal O'Broin, Clyne road, Kimmage; and Donal Finn, St. Colman's College, Fermoy.

Traditional Singing in Irish—1, Peigi Bean Ui Raghallaigh, 15 Derrynane Parade, N.C. road, Dublin. 2, Colm de Clanndiolun, 11 Bothar Droma Cuilinn, Ath' Cliath.

Baritone Solo—1, gold medal, Hugh Martin, 23 Ormonde Park, Finaghy, Belfast; 2, silver medal, Miles McSwiney, Alverna, Mardyke, Cork; 3, bronze medal, Peadar Ryan, Little Longford street, Dublin.

RESULTS

Composers' Competitions. — Original Song, with Irish or English words, and piano accompaniment—No award.

Prize for Arrangement of Irish Air for Violin and Piano—Won by Lindsay Seymour, The Nether Hall, Smithwick, Sussex, England.

Dr. Annie Patterson Medal for Setting of two Gaelic Songs of contrasting character for Voice with small Irish harp—Won by Ernest de Regge, Ashline, Ennis, Co. Clare.

Milligan Fox Medal for arrangement of Irish Air as two-part Song, unaccompanied, with Irish words, suitable for school choirs—No award.

Small Irish Harp—No gold medal awarded. 1st Silver Medal—Lois Davidson, 63 Rathdown Park, Terenure. 2nd Bronze Medal—Mercedes Bolger, Millmount, Gorey, Co. Wexford.

Catterall Cup for Violin Concerto—Won by Carmel Lang, 34 Villiers road, Rathmines.

Piano and Violin Duet. 1st Gold Medals—Carmel Lang, 34 Villiers road, Rathgar, and J. Havelock Nelson, Glenageary. They were awarded 92 per cent. for what the adjudicator, Hubert Foss, described as a very beautiful, well-balanced performance. The playing of the violinist in the slow movement of the Beethoven Sonata No. 2 of Op. 30 was delightful, and he wished to congratulate her heartily.

Instrumental Trio (three entries)—1, gold medals, Fanny Feehan, Betty Sullivan, and J. Havelock Nelson, Glenageary, Co. Dublin (90 per cent.); 2, silver medals, Carmel Lang, Sighle and Maire Larchet, 8 St. Mary's road, Ballsbridge (87); 3, Harcourt Trio (Clara Greene, Winifred Rankin, and Maisie McCullagh) (86).

Mr. Hubert Foss, adjudicating, said that none of the trios had caught the real atmosphere of the old-fashioned Meldelssohn (the Trio in C minor). Nevertheless, there had been some really fine playing from all three. He had no hesitation in awarding the first prize, even though the tone of the violin, with its somewhat fluffy quality, did not blend with the cold purity of the 'cello.

Soprano Solo Singing—1, gold medal, Aileen Mahood, Oaklands avenue, Bloomfield, Belfast; 2 silver medal, Marjorie Crowley, 45 Oakley road, Ranelagh, Dublin; 3, bronze medal, Peggy Howlin, 116 Connaught street, Phibsboro'. Highly commended—Margaret Wortley, Delamer terrace Whitehall, Dublin; Gladys Chambers Banbridge, Co. Down; Sheila Morris, 345 Harold's Cross road, Dublin; Nancy O'Carroll, St. Mary's Walk, Waterford; Vera Duffy, Brian avenue Fairview; and Jean Tonge, Mary street, Wexford.

Bass Solo Singing—No gold medal or silver medal awarded. Bronze medal—James Shaw, Muckamore, Co. Antrim. Commended—W. P. Brennan, 21 Larkfield Grove, Kimmage; and Francis X. Thunder, West View Palermo, Bray.

Dr. Sydney Northcote, adjudicating, said that he had been bitterly disappointed. It would not be right to pretend that there was anything approaching an adequate performance of Handel's "Honour and Arms." Some of the singers could have done it, but they were entirely wrong in their conception of the aria.

Children's Choirs—1st, silver cup, Holy Faith Convent Choir, Dominick street, Dublin (Conductor, J. Turner Huggard); 2nd, Marino Technical School Girls' Choir (Conductor, Diarmuid O h-Allmhain).

Male Voice Choirs—1st, Griffith Challenge Cup, Ballyclare and District Male Choir (Conductor, A. McClenaghan); 2nd, Alpha Male Choir, Donegall road, Belfast (Conductor, George Eascott).

Mixed Voice Choirs—1st, Challenge Cup, the Grosvenor Singers, 87 Grosvenor square, Rathmines, Dublin (Conductor, Alice Yoakley); 2nd, Ormiston Mixed Voice Choir, Wellington place, Belfast (Conductor, William Boyd).

Ladies' Choirs—1st, Girls' Brigade Choir, Dublin Battalion (Conductor, Alice Yoakley).

Amhran Triur—1, Marino Technical School, Trio No. 2; 2, Sgoil Caitriona, Eccles street.

ADELAIDE HOSPITAL'S GOOD YEAR

"This hospital adopted a very high moral tone when it decided not to go in for Hospital Sweep grants. It is to be congratulated upon keeping away from the grants; they are not all gain, and they carry with them certain disabilities," said Mr. H. M. Dockrell, T.D., speaking at the eighty-fifth annual meeting of the Adelaide Hospital, Dublin, held yesterday in the board room of the Hospital.

The President, Lord Farnham, who was in the chair, said that he was proud that the hospital was able to be maintained by voluntary support, and was not dependent upon Sweep aid. It was, therefore, free from the Hospitals' Commission control.

Speaking on the financial position, he said that the change for the good was due chiefly to the response to the special appeal, but the position would not be satisfactory until the income balanced expenditure.

He referred to the loss sustained by the hospital in the death of Mrs. Watson, who had served the Linen Guild faithfully for many years, and who had held the position of Chairman up to the time of her death.

Mr. J. A. Weir, who was elected a Vice-President, paid tribute to the staffs.

It was announced that an anonymous supporter had offered to donate £50 to the hospital, provided 20 more people subscribed a similar sum before the 1st October, 1943.

The annual report stated that during the year 1,967 in-patients and 35,491 out-patients had been treated. 1,565 major and 636 minor operations had been performed. A new X-ray apparatus had been installed at a cost of £1,584. The increase of over £2,000 resulted from a special appeal for increased support.

Better Tone in Markets

THE formal announcement of the end of the Anglo-American campaign in North Africa induced a better atmosphere on the London Stock Exchange yesterday, but there was no great expansion in business.

A restricting influence is the desire to await news regarding the important discussions now proceeding in Washington.

Internationals were strong; Brazil Tractions jumped to 32⅞, Canadian Pacific to 17¼, and Holdings to 18¼. Brazilian Bonds were bought on hopes of a favourable revision of the debt agreement.

Argentine Rails were firmer and British Rails held Wednesday's late rally.

Feature in the Miscellaneous market was a rally in Marks and Spencer to 49/10½. A.B. Pictures rose 9d. to 15/9. Fords hardened another 7½d. to 34/7½, and Rover 6d. to 26/9. Courtaulds gained 3d. to 49/10½; Tobaccos improved, "Imps" and "Bats" each gaining 7½d.

In Oils, Ultramar further advanced 1/3 to 54/6.

Kaffirs were firm, but inactive, following the statements made about gold in the debate on currency plans. In the Diamond group, Cons. Africa Selection were 6d. better again. De Beers Defd., after rising to 19 11/16, fell back to 19 9/16.

USEFUL INVESTMENT

A useful investment is available in the market just now in the shape of 5,000 5½ p.c. Pref. stock in the Brush Electrical Engineering Co. The price is 25/- per £1 unit, at which the yield offered is £4 8/- p.c.

The company has an unfortunate past, but improvement begun in 1939, and in 1941 dividends were resumed on the Ord. capital with the payment of 6 p.c. This was increased to 8 p.c. for 1942. In June last year the whole of the three classes of Deb. stock totalling £287,039, was redeemed by means of conversion into Pref. and Ord. shares, and the capital now stands at £391,489 in 5½ p.c. Cumulative Pref. stock and £594,717 in Ord. stock.

There is now nothing ranking in front of this capital, and in 1942 the surplus income, after payment of the Pref. dividend, was equal to 21.4 p.c. on the Ord. stock, on which 8 p.c. was paid. The Pref. dividend was covered more than six times over.

The £1 stock units of Colvilles, Ltd., the important Scottish iron and steel company, obtainable at about 26/3, offer the attractive yield of £6 1/11 p.c. on the 8 p.c. dividend again to be paid for 1942. The report shows that profits, after taxation, totalled £622,535, against £603,196 in the previous year. The works of the company and its subsidiaries, it is stated, were in constant operation throughout the year, but neither sufficient time nor labour was available to keep the plant in as good order as the directors would have desired.

War damage insurance, it is pointed out, has been particularly burdensome to the steel industry owing to the very large amount of costly plant necessary for the production of steel. By Government decree it is a capital charge, but the directors have considered it desirable in the meantime to provide for this liability.

The announcement by Tube Investmentes, Ltd., of the maintenance of its interim dividend at 10 p.c. suggests that, like its associated company in the tube industry, Stewarts and Llyods, Ltd., its financial position is satisfactory. The company has an issued capital of £4,084,777, of which £3,255,790 is in Ord. stock. For the past two years it has paid 20 p.c. on its Ord. stock, which compares with 23½ p.c. for 1939 and 1940 The £1 stock units are quoted at 95/6, at which they offered a yield of £4 3/9 p.c.

A careful analysis of the effect of war-time conditions on trade is made by the Chairman of the Maypole Dairy Co. Loss of special supply centres abroad and the registration of customers caused the volume of sales of the special lines sold by the company to decline by half of what it was in 1938. Against this loss the trade in general groceries had increased, while the margin of profit under regulated prices was higher than it had been the company's policy to take in peace time. Thus the company had been able to maintain a net income sufficient to pay the moderate dividend of 4 per cent. The Chairman anticipates lower profits for the current year. The 2/- Deferred Ordinary are quoted at 2/3.

Most Interest in Home Issues

THERE was little to hand on the Dublin Stock Exchange to cause any expansion in trading yesterday, but, as usual, Irish securities attracted a fair measure of attention, and values for the most part held steady to harder. British Industrials were slightly busier.

Home Government Funds were well maintained, and Fourth National Loan, 4 p.c. Land Bonds and 3½ p.c. Land Bonds all marked small gains. 3½ p.c. National Security shaded off to 105¾. 3½ p.c. War Loan eased to 103⅝, and Waterford 3½ p.c. slipped back to 1 premium.

There was good buying of Guinness units all day, and they closed pence better at 119/9.

Great Southern Rails were unaltered, apart from the Deb., which dipped to 54¾. Great Northern Ord. relapsed to 19 in a small way. Dublin Transport Ord. declined to 21/6, but the "A" Deb. jumped two points to 101.

Browne and Nolan Pref. made fresh headway to 25/-, but Cement Ord. dipped to 39/1½. Irish Sugar Pref. improved to 28/-, and Irish Dunlop Pref. to 25/-.

A number of other local Industrials were dealt in, but there was no change in values.

Good buying of Imperial Tobaccos resulted in a sharp recovery of 1/3 to 147/3. Courtaulds Ord. were raised to 50/-, Bradford Dyers to 17/6, and Imperial Chemical Ord. to 39/-.

GRIMSBY FISH.—Haddocks, sprags, codling, whiting, ling, coalfish, cod 7/-, with heads on; lemon soles and plaice 15/3, halibut 21/3, haddocks, sprags and ling (headless) 8/11, smoked haddocks 14/- per stone.

WOOL

BRADFORD.—There is no indication yet of any general issue of raw material allocations to cloth manufacturers for utility weaving yarns, but there is inquiry for yarns for Canadian markets. The total amount of new business passing is still rather small. There are, however, indications that more business will develop in the near future.

SPENT 30 YEARS IN THE EAST

Came Home Almost a Wreck

But Still Active at 75—Thanks to Kruschen

New Guinea was never a health resort, even in the piping days of peace. Mr. Dexter spent the greater part of 30 years there, and came home ridden with malaria. Not a good foundation for a ripe old age. Yet at 75 he is still quite fit—thanks to a 'little ceremony' every morning. Read his letter:—

"The writer spent over 30 years in the East. The greater part of this time was spent in the least-known country in the world—New Guinea. The remainder in Malaya. Persistent malaria, and finally blackwater fever, caused me to be sent home, more or less a wreck, and far from a desirable insurance risk. To-day, in my seventy-fifth year, I am quite fit and active—thanks to the little daily dose of Kruschen taken at wakening, in hot tea. 365 days a year sees this little ceremony. Without it 'irregularity' makes life a misery, but with it all is well."—H. Dexter.

Whether you are still in your 'teens or past your prime, it is neither too early nor too late to start on the "little daily dose." Just a tiny, tasteless pinch of Kruschen Salts, every morning, in tea, coffee or hot water. That's the Kruschen rule for complete and constant fitness.

Kruschen Salts is sold by all Chemists, price 1/9 per bottle.

Is Grey Hair making YOU look OLD?

Restore your hair to its natural youthful colour and take a full ten years off your looks. It's not only possible, it's easy, safe, quick and inexpensive. Make up the following mixture. To a bare half-pint of water add one ounce Bay Rum. Then mix in the contents of one small box Orlex Compound. Finally add a quarter-ounce of glycerine. Any chemist can supply these ingredients or make up the mixture. Applied twice weekly, this non-greasy, non-sticky, non-rub mixture soon gives your hair the glow of youthful colour—and it doesn't colour the scalp. Get rid of grey hair. Start to-day—the Orlex way! Distributors in Eire: Maurice Fitzgerald and Co., Ltd., 8/9 Temple Lane, Dublin.

NT 30 YEARS N THE EAST

e Home Almost a Wreck

Still Active at 75—anks to Kruschen

Guinea was never a health even in the piping days of Mr. Dexter spent the greater 30 years there, and came idden with malaria. Not a undation for a ripe old age. 75 he is still quite fit—thanks ittle ceremony' every morn- ead his letter:—

writer spent over 30 years in . The greater part of this time t in the least-known country in d—New Guinea. The remainder aya. Persistent malaria, and lackwater fever, caused me to home, more or less a wreck, and n a desirable insurance risk. in my seventy-fifth year, I am and active—thanks to the little se of Kruschen taken at waken- hot tea. 365 days a year sees ittle ceremony. Without it rity' makes life a misery, but all is well."—H. Dexter.

her you are still in your or past your prime, it is too early nor too late to n the "little daily dose." tiny, tasteless pinch of Krus- alts, every morning, in tea, or hot water. That's the en rule for complete and t fitness.

GOVERNMENT NOTICES.

SUPPLY OF POTATOES TO DUBLIN AND DUN LAOGHAIRE.

The Dublin and District Potato Committee, a body representative of wholesale potato merchants, which has been set up with the Government's approval, is acting as sole purchaser of potatoes for the entire area consisting of the County Borough of Dublin and the Borough of Dun Laoghaire. A licence has been granted to the Committee for this purpose under the Emergency Powers (Acquisition and Disposal of Potatoes) Order, 1943. Persons outside of the County Borough of Dublin and the Borough of Dun Laoghaire who have potatoes to dispose of should sell them to the Committee (Address: Corporation Fruit Market, Mary's Lane, Dublin; Telephone No. 21144).

LICENCE REQUIREMENTS.

1. No licence is required by any person outside the area comprising the County Borough of Dublin and the Borough of Dun Laoghaire who consigns potatoes to that area, IF THE POTATOES ARE CONSIGNED TO THE DUBLIN AND DISTRICT POTATO COMMITTEE.

2. In the case of potatoes consigned to any other person or body in Dublin or Dun Laoghaire (apart from small individual gifts not exceeding 1 cwt.), the CONSIGNOR must produce at the railway station or canal station from which the potatoes are consigned a copy of the requisite licence or other authority from the Department of Agriculture.

3. Any person in the County Borough of Dublin or the Borough of Dun Laoghaire (except the Dublin and District Potato Committee) to whom potatoes are sent from outside that area must, when taking delivery of the potatoes, produce on request and hand over the necessary licence from the Department of Agriculture.

OBITUARY

LADY FLORENCE EDEN

The death has occurred of Lady Florence Eden, wife of the late Colonel Eden. She was the eldest surviving daughter of the late Earl of Belmore, Castlecoole, Enniskillen. About two weeks ago she met with an accident, breaking her leg. She is survived by her only son and two daughters.

MR. W. A. INGRAM

The death occurred yesterday of Mr. William Alexander Ingram, of Walworth, Ballykelly, Co. Derry, the oldest member of the legal profession in Limavady. Aged 79 years, he was a son of Dr. John Kells Ingram, Dublin, former Senior Fellow and Vice-Provost of Trinity College. Mr. W. A. Ingram was a prominent member of the Church of Ireland.

Climax in Tunisia

Another stage in the history of the world war has been reached with the final acknowledgment of the Allied conquest of North Africa. General Eisenhower's victory has been decisive. Barely a week ago it was thought that the Axis forces in Tunisia still had a chance, if not of turning the tables upon their enemies, at any rate of a partially successful evacuation. By Saturday morning the world was aware that, with the capture of Bizerta and Tunis, together with the concentration of the Axis armies into the Cap Bon peninsula, the only alternative was death or surrender; yet even then a resistance of some duration was anticipated. The end has come with bewildering suddenness; there has been nothing like it, in fact, since the kaleidoscopic days of June, 1940, when the flags raced one another across the map of north-western Europe, and it seemed for a while as if many tens of thousands of British troops must lay down their arms. The inevitable failed to happen then; the inevitable has happened now. Once Bizerta and Tunis had fallen, Marshal Rommel's Afrikakorps lost for once and for all its opportunity to fight another day; there was no further question of its transport across the narrow seas to Italy and security. Having been driven by the superior power and the wonderfully skilful manœuvring of the Allied armies into the inhospitable peninsula — which contains no harbour worth mentioning—it was doomed; it no longer could be furnished with the munitions necessary for resistance, and all but a few of the German and Italian soldiers whose name was so terrible in North Africa less than a year ago have laid down their arms. The "official" termination of hostilities was announced to the British House of Commons by Mr. Attlee, the Deputy Prime Minister, yesterday. It has been corroborated by yesterday's Italian communiqué, which declared that "the First Italian Army, to which the honour of the last Axis resistance in African territory fell, ceased fighting, by order of the Duce, this morning," and, indirectly, by an ominous broadcast by the German radio. The radio commentator is content to assume the destruction of German and Italian power in Africa, and devotes his attention to what will happen next.

In the ordinary way, a lull—that is to say, an interval during which no "spectacular" campaigns occur—might be expected; but lulls seem to have gone out of fashion. During his 1,700-miles-long pursuit of the Axis army, General Montgomery occasionally had to stop and draw breath; yet the surprise of the whole campaign—and, possibly, the decisive factor in it—has been the brevity of these pauses, none of which has exceeded more than a few days in duration. It may be that the Allies have re-introduced into warfare the element of speed—surprising speed—and that, since it has paid them so well, they will maintain it. The German radio is, or professes to be, under no illusions. It evidently shares the belief—a belief common to all the peoples of the Allied countries—that an invasion of Europe is imminent. All North Africa, it says, has become a base for it. It has no respect for the view that the Allies must stop and draw breath before they carry their arms from Africa to Europe; not only have they showed themselves capable of "regrouping" and developing a new offensive in unexpectedly little time, but they possess enormous and readily available reserves, and there are masses of Allied troops in North Africa whose services have not been required at all for the Tunisian campaign. An immediate attack upon the Continent, it concludes, is "technically possible." The question is being asked throughout the whole world: Are the Allies preparing to turn from the defensive to the offensive? It is one thing to defeat the African forces of Marshal Rommel and General von Arnim, and to take, according to the latest British reckoning, between 150,000 and 175,000 prisoners. It is another thing altogether to institute an assault upon a continent, especially when there is no reason to discount the prevailing view that every possible precaution has been taken against the invasion of that continent. Naturally, no secrets are being revealed; if the Allies have an invasion in mind, there is no certainty that it will be launched from North Africa at all. Europe's coastline is enormously long, and there still are more troops in Great Britain than in the Mediterranean theatre of war. Possibly, the decision is being taken in Washington, where the leaders of the Allied nations are in conference; but they will not "talk." There will be no news until the actual moment arrives.

Vandalism in Dublin

The City Manager's statement on vandalism in Dublin reveals that both damage and danger are far more serious than might have been realised. Lopping of trees and theft of electric light bulbs from public places are not the only offences. According to the City Manager, banisters, stairs and flooring have been removed from city houses, lead chutes and piping damaged, and time switches and other fittings stolen from public lamps. Most serious of all, lifebuoys and lifebuoy lines have been taken from the quays. Yet the public conscience appears to be easy. It will not be stirred, perhaps, until a major catastrophe occurs—until a man is drowned in the river because a lifebuoy has been stolen, or until 'buses collide on a corner at which the light has been put out of action. Even in these cases, the reaction will be one merely of pity; the citizens of Dublin are still not advanced enough to feel that a reflection on their city is a reflection on themselves. Perhaps, it is a relic of that traditionally Irish feeling of being "agin the Government" that we cannot understand that, in a democratic State, the man who is "agin the Government" is against himself. We cannot understand that there is a certain public responsibility—that a man must resist offences to his neighbour's property, if only in order that the same service may be rendered to him in his turn. It is useless to attribute the lack of civic spirit to the evil influence of the cinema, or to the deficiencies of the educational system. The best teacher in the world cannot mould the behaviour of a child, if the influence of the home does nothing but undermine his teaching. It is in the home that the civic conscience should be instilled; and it is the gravest slur upon the "home life" which this land cherishes that it does not seem to care for teaching such lessons. This civic spirit must concern all political parties; for no society can be built upon an anti-social individual. The police and the magistrates are doing their best to curb vandalism in Dublin. It can be stamped out only by the citizens themselves.

MARITIME WEEK IN DUBLIN

A model of a sailing ship, made by a Tipperary man, Midshipman Pollard, who went to sea in Nelson's flagship, will be one of the many interesting exhibits on view at the exhibition in the Mansion House, promoted by the Maritime Institute of Ireland, which will be formally opened on Tuesday next by An Taoiseach, the President, Senator Brennan, presiding.

Maritime Week opens to-morrow with swimming races and a life-saving demonstration in the Liffey, organised by the Leinster Branch of the Irish Amateur Swimming Association and the Royal Life-Saving Society. To-morrow there will be races between members of the Maritime Inscription, Dublin Area, and the Maritime Service Port Control, and also between crews of the various Dublin rowing clubs.

Other exhibits include the actual flagstaff belonging to Napper Tandy, and a barque model, made by Mr. Henry Blake, Loop Head, Co. Clare, who had been blind for twenty years. Made for the County Clare Branch of the National Council for the Blind in Ireland, the model is now in the care of St. Joseph's School, who has lent it to the exhibition.

A scale model of the Ark Royal, and one of the Queen Mary, with a model of Nelson Pillar, showing the comparative heights, are other interesting specimens. To promote interest in maritime affairs, invitations have been issued asking for conducted parties of school children at specified hours during the week.

Doris Viscountess Castlerosse, of 43 Berkeley square, W., left £3,043; Mr. John Patrick Roughneen, Kiltimagh, Co. Mayo, £27,970; Mr. Philip Treacy, Clyduff, Roscrea, £3,131; Miss Isabella Colquhoun Roberts, 32 Marlborough road, Donnybrook, £3,354.

CRUISKEEN LAWN

By Myles na gCopaleen

I CANNOT stand or understand the sort of typographical shouting that goes on in that hierofrantic sheet, my income tax form, and it would not surprise me in the least to learn that yours is the same. This sort of thing: "If you are a MARRIED MAN and your wife is living with you. . . ." I think it is very bad taste using those heavy black caps, as the convict said to the trial judges (pace Hanna J. and his thoughtful letter to Ireland's premier finest most tunisian-minded newspaper, the Irish Times, all uncover please). "If you are a MARRIED MAN." Undoubtedly there is some dreadful sneer intended here, some recondite official indecency that could be understood only in the underworld of please attach file, have you papers please, please speak, can you discharge file please, I am directed to say that the matter is under consideration. "If you are a MARRIED MAN and your wife is living with you." These hidden baroque-rats have the cool cheek (warm cheek for some reason is considered rare) to suggest that it is the exceptional thing in Ireland for a married man to have his wife living with him. One expects the formula to go on like this: "If, however, you are a MARRIED MAN and have your wife parked out in Shankill so that you will not be embarrassed by her fearful appearance, ludicrous 'conversation' and appalling clothes, give her address and telephone number." Yes. But read the thing again. "If you are a MARRIED MAN and your wife is living with you . . ." Supposing your wife is living with and you are not a married man (or even a MARRIED MAN), what then? What subtle poor oak rat's distinction is being made here? If I understand English, a wife is what a woman becomes after she is married and no amount of equivocal chat can convince me that anybody other than a married man can have a wife. (I am assuming all the time that cab-horses, cows and cats are not regarded as being in receipt of (mark that lovely phrase, "in receipt of") a taxable income, Why then the "if you are a MARRIED MAN" when the word "wife" follows on at once? Why not say "if you have a wife living with you . . ."? It would be too simple, I suppose. Incidentally, what is the legal meaning of "living"? Supposing I am a MARRIED MAN and my wife is dying with me? Yes, I see it. The cold official brain thinks of everything. They must insist on this word "living." Leave it out, they will say, or even to change it to "if you are living with your wife" and you will have all sorts of unprincipled persons claiming relief in respect of a wife who is (sure enough) sitting in the drawing room, very well preserved woman considering she died in 1924. Can you beat that for ghoulish circumspection? (It just occurs to me that there must have been a lot of official jargon in our jails in the oul days, have you file please, please attach file, is file with you please. Why this eternal tender supplication "please"?)

On the next page of the form I see CLAIM IN RESPECT OF PERSONAL ALLOWANCE (TO A MARRIED MAN), "HOUSEKEEPER," CHILDREN, DEPENDENT RELATIVES, AND LIFE ASSURANCE PREMIUMS. Why this neering sophistication of putting my housekeeper into inverted commas? The woman has a blameless character and make that indigenous culinary complication, an Irish stew, that you would get up out off yoor bad en tha maddle off tha neight fur tay eet a wee bet off ut, d'ych ondherstond me. Is a dependent relative what happens when you are unwise enough to say: I seen you with the man that you were speaking to whom? And why cannot I get relief in respect of dependent absolutes? The wife's mother, for instance?

I will not harrow you with the dreadful mess that this form assumes you to be in "if you are an UNMARRIED PERSON." Earlier it was a question of a MARRIED MAN; if you happen to be unmarried, you are only a PERSON, which I consider insulting and sinister. Furthermore, I see no provision for the situation where you are a MARRIED WOMAN and (decently enough) support your husband. Listen to this. "If you are an UNMARRIED PERSON having living with you . . . . your mother." What gaucherie! Unmarried persons in Ireland do not have their mothers living with them, they live with their mothers.

Small wonder faith that nobody likes this wretched form. Small wonder every bank, insurance office and big business firm in the country is tearing down and building up its walls rather than pay. Please speak. Bah!

The author will produce the play, which will run until May 29th. Tickets are obtainable at the N.S.P.C.C. office, 20 Molesworth street.

THE GENERAL SYNOD

FINANCIAL REVIEW

"EMINENTLY satisfactory, in the fourth year of war," was how Sir John Keane described the financial affairs of the Church of Ireland when he moved that the report of the Representative Church Body be adopted by he General Synod in Dublin yesterday.

"It is truly remarkable," he said, "that judged by accepted business standards our finances are sound and little impaired by the ravages of war. We must, however, guard ourselves against facile optimism. The problems of peace and reconstruction may prove for us more exacting than those of war."

Announcing that the deficit on income and expenditure account in 1942 was £10,749, against £15,628 in 1941, and that their investments, the book value of which increased only by £550, showed an appreciation in market value of £274,000, he warned them, however, that the general investment position was still very difficult.

The income from investments, Sir John continued, was up by £2,500, mainly because the Great Northern Railway Company paid a dividend on their Preference stock, the deficit on which was nearly £5,000 less than in 1941. They had some disappointment that no payment was made on the Great Southern Railways Guaranteed stock for 1942 as they had considerable investments with the company. When the capital of the company was reorganised they suffered a loss of £170,000. They could only hope that, whatever changes might become necessary in any future reorganisation, they would not suffer a like misfortune.

Market values of investments generally showed a steady increase, due to the fact that money had, during the war, become cheap, and the tendency was for it to become cheaper, and also because of the turn of the tide in the favour of the Allies.

LOW INTEREST RATES

The official policy of the British Government—that of keeping the interest burden on Government loans as low as possible—was admirable, but it had serious reactions. Governments, corporations, and other bodies who borrowed money were taking advantage of the present cheap rates of interest to redeem loans which they had issued at high rates of interest and to re-issue loans at low rates. From time to time they had lent the Dublin Corporation and the Dun Laoghaire Corporation considerable sums in the form of mortgage loans. Both these bodies had taken advantage of the present cheap money position to reduce their interest liability.

"I wish to draw particular attention to this matter," proceeded Sir John, "because in a leading article in the Irish Times last March there were two statements which might have misled the uninformed in respect of the Dun Laoghaire loans. This article stated that the City Manager had 'found the Representative Body willing to reduce its rate of interest on £275,000 by about 20 per cent.' The word 'willing' may have led people who do not understand these matters to believe that the Representative Body voluntarily reduced the rate of interest without any necessity for doing so. Under the Mortgage Deed, the Dun Laoghaire Corporation could compel us to accept redemption of the total amount which we had loaned at the termination of any period of six months, and we would have been faced with the re-investment of £275,000 in a market where interest rates were low and with a tendency for them to become lower."

No matter how much they might dislike the redemption of these mortgages or the reduction in interest rates, the Dublin Corporation and the Dun Laoghaire Corporation were perfectly within their rights in doing what they did, and it was their duty to their ratepayers to take every opportunity of reducing their interest liabilities.

Six investments, representing £167,000 worth of stock, paid no dividend in 1942, some of these—Chinese Bonds, and Gas, Light and Coke Company Preference Stock.

LOSS ON REDEMPTION

Most of the investments held by the Representative Body were redeemable securities and as they reached the redemption dates further losses in income were inevitable. During the current year capital to the extent of about £221,000, bearing interest at 4, 4½ and 5 per cent., would fall to be redeemed and the proceeds would have to be re-invested at much lower rates.

The report was adopted.

ELECTION OF BISHOPS

A bill to alter the method of electing archbishops and bishops was rejected after the second reading and Committee stage had been passed on Tuesday.

The third reading was defeated on a division.

The voting was as follows:—For: Clerical 37, Laity 41. Total—78. Against — Clerical 82, Laity 53. Total—135.

The Synod unanimously passed a resolution that the Standing Committee be authorised to take the necessary steps to declare the adhesion of the Church of Ireland to the World Council of Churches.

The resolution was moved by the Primate of All Ireland, the Most Rev. Dr. Gregg, who said that by formally declaring the Church of Ireland a member they would be adding their voices to the united voice of the Churches of the World in the trying days which lay ahead.

CLERGY PENSIONS

All Church of Ireland clergymen who have reached the age of seventy may get pensions in "a comparatively short time." This was made clear by Sir John Keane when he moved the adoption of the report of the Representative Church Body.

"A preliminary investigation has shown," he said, "that within a comparatively short time it may be possible to provide a pension at seventy years of age for all clergymen. It was decided, therefore, that a complete and exhaustive investigation of the state of the Superannuation Fund should be made. The result of this investigation will not be available for some time.

Sir John was referring to resolutions passed by last year's General Synod asking whether any arrangements could be made to grant clergymen in good health of seventy years of age, or, with forty years' service, a smaller pension than the present one of £300, being drawn only by those forced by ill-health to abandon their clerical duties.

EDUCATION CRITICISM

Criticism of the Department of Education was made by the Bishop of Limerick, the Right Rev. E. C. Hodges, who presented the report of the Board of Education. He protested against the action of the Department in making the Primary Schools Certificate Examination compulsory throughout the country.

"There are signs," he said, "that in some matters the Department of Education is inclined to put a severe tax upon the parents of the country. The whole situation is fraught with grievous danger. It is not in the interests of education, the Church of Ireland or the requirements in their schools."

Moving the adoption of the report, Dr. Hodges said he thought that the Department of Education had unadvisably decided to make the examination compulsory in the sixth standard. Most of the Church of Ireland primary schools were small, "one-teacher" schools, and it was perfectly clear that the teacher in a "one-teacher" school had not the time or the energy to devote to the two or three sixth standard pupils that a teacher in a town school had who had responsibility only for the one standard. He did not think it fair to impose the examination upon the whole country, and in the hands of an unsympathetic authority, the whole schedule of schools could be put out of existence for inefficiency.

SHORTAGE OF TEACHERS

The position with regard to the provision of teachers was very serious, continued Dr. Hodges. There were at present eighteen schools without teachers, and there were eight teachers completing their training in June next. Most of the schools were small and remote, and it was difficult to see where they would obtain the services of fully qualified teachers.

Explaining how the position had arisen, he said that for many years entries into training had been restricted to people who came from the Preparatory College. Now the education authorities had agreed as from December next to allow a number of people who came by open competition to train. This would to some extent remedy the present situation in two or three years' time, but until then it is very doubtful whether all the vacancies in the national schools under Church of Ireland management could be filled. The education authorities had been very considerate in allowing people not fully qualified to teach temporarily in schools.

The number of pupils in the Primary schools had decreased—in the past fourteen years it had fallen from 20,000 to 12,000—but the Secondary school population had remained exactly the same. In other words, the Secondary schools had been living in a large measure upon the death of the Primary schools.

Referring to the lack of provision under Church of Ireland auspices for teaching agricultural matters, Dr. Hodges urged that some of the funds and equipment available should be used for the establishment of a central place of training in agriculture.

The Rev. Chancellor Quinn (Belfast), seconding, said that, while there was no doubt that the Education Acts in Northern Ireland would have to be amended, he was certain that the time was not yet, and that if they were wise they should proceed cautiously. As a Church they were not likely to get anything that was much worth while in education by making war upon their fellow-countrymen of other religious denominations. If they were going to get anywhere that would mean an improvement, they ought to seek to get that goal along lines of co-operation and understanding, on the basis of what was just and right. The greatest enemy was not that there were in operation sectarian differences, but an enemy of the whole Christian Church, of every denomination, and that was secularism. He paid a tribute to the new Northern Ireland Minister of Education.

The report was adopted.

A bill to establish a fund the income of which is to be applied in providing an episcopal stipend of £1,500 for an additional bishopric in the Diocese of Down, Connor and Dromore was passed.

LONDON LETTER

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
THURSDAY NIGHT.

A CONSIDERABLE amount of the oat seed used in Lincolnshire this year has proved to be affected with leaf stripe and other seed-borne diseases; in many cases crops have had to be ploughed in and re-sown. The County Agricultural Committee has again emphasised this week the elementary precaution of treating all seed with an organo mercurial dressing. The Committee are calling attention to their demonstration plot on the Boston-Skegness road, where Star oats was drilled on March 15. The seed was dressed and a good crop resulted. A small part of the field sown with the same seed untreated has the majority of the plants affected with leaf stripe.

Binder Twine Substitute

The binder twine scarcity will be somewhat relieved by a decision of Mr. Hudson's Department to release a limited supply of jute twine for all agricultural purposes other than heavy binders and low density balers for which binder twine was formerly employed. Binder twine may now be used only in heavy binders and low density balers. Farmers and market gardeners will have to sign a declaration as to the purpose for which they require the new jute twine when buying it from their dealers.

Unshrinkable Wool

To the wearer of woollen garments, particularly socks and underwear, the ability of wool to shrink is its only drawback, for in other ways it is superior to all other textiles. For over fifty years various methods of rendering wool unshrinkable have been suggested. In some few cases these methods have actually found commercial use, but the results obtained have been most often disappointing. "Relaxation shrinkage" has been largely eliminated by the manufacturers and the dyer or finisher co-operating with one another. Felting shrinkage is a different problem. Several satisfactory treatments are now available, the most successful being treatment with chlorine gas. All socks in Britain are rendered non-shrinkable by this process.

Seaweed Industry

It is a pity that the short account of his work on seaweeds given by Yendo, the Japanese botanist, to the Royal Dublin Society, has had so little influence in relation to the study of seaweeds on the coasts of these islands, declared Dr. E. Marion Delf, lecturer in Botany at Westfield College, University of London, in a paper before the Royal Society of Arts on the nature and use of seaweeds. Mr. A. D. Cotton, keeper of the herbarium and library, Royal Botanic Gardens, Kew, who presided, made an ecological survey of the marine algæ of Clare Island, off the Irish coast, thirty years ago. The study, the first of its kind in English, became, and has remained, a classic for other workers in this field.

Vintners "On the Wagon"

Nine courses were normal at the annual banquet held by The Vintners Company in their historic city hall in pre-war days, and in the wine list were sherry, four kinds of Moselle, three clarets, champagne (1920), port and brandy. At their annual re-union yesterday, two hundred guests sat down to — ham sandwiches, cakes and sugarless tea. They were glad to hear, however, that the cellars still hold substantial stocks.

AN IRISHMAN'S DIARY

Feiseanna

I have often wondered why the numerous feiseanna, and festivals held all over the country at this time are not organised on a national basis. I mean that I think there might be competitions in all the regions from which winners could be sent to Dublin for a final contest.

In drama, at least, I believe that a first class commercial attraction could be made out of a fortnight in a Dublin theatre, at which the winning amateur group from each of the four provinces presented a play for three nights. What is more, it would certainly bring new dramatic talent right under the noses of the producers.

What would happen to their jobs, while all the amateurs were away in Dublin? There you have me. But they might make their summer holidays coincide with the week of the production; and if fairly liberal expenses were allowed it would be worth their while.

Beatrice Webb and Humanity

Among the many appreciations of Beatrice Webb that I have read no one has made reference to her project for a club for the wives of Labour leaders in London. This club was, I believe, formed under the name of the Half-Circle Club.

Beatrice Webb argued—very reasonably—that men who were prominent in the trade union or political labour movements were accustomed to meet many people of all types, but the danger was that their wives would lack this broadening influence. She regarded the club as a kind of finishing school.

Perhaps, it is not surprising that the project failed. Beatrice Webb made little allowance for human nature in her plan. And the idea that women could be gathered together and "schooled" for social purposes was not really very practical.

Taking the Waters

Early in the last century there was a great vogue for the medicinal waters of places such as Bath, which became the resorts of all the fashionable and wealthy people. A prosperous spa at Clonturk House, near Dublin, was established by a Frenchman named Duval, who installed swings, hobby-horses and such amusements, and held displays of fireworks and balloons.

His principal attraction, however, was the medicinal well. When he took the house this well was filled up with rubbish; but an expert who analysed the water reported that it had valuable ferruginous qualities, and Duval promptly had it cleared and cleaned. Alas! when the water was sampled again all its virtues had disappeared.

Duval soon saw the remedy. He threw all the scrap—pots, kettles, pans, and so on—which he had cleared from the well back in again; and, behold, the iron content of the water was restored, and the spa flourished long afterwards!

Any Other Name

That story, like many another entertaining one, comes from Weston St. John Joyce's invaluable book, "The Neighbourhood of Dublin," which has been discovered by many people since it was reprinted a few years ago.

Among other things, he points out that Goatstown was called, remarkably enough, after goats. In the early nineteenth century that area was much favoured as a resort for invalids, both because of the mountain air and because of the benefits derived from drinking that "sanative beverage," the milk of the mountain goats.

Ireland's Eye, on the other hand, has no connection with eyes whatever. Its name was originally Irish—Ereann, or Eria's Island. Eria, a woman's name, was confused with Erin, and the addition of the Danish "Ey," meaning island, gave Erin's Ey. From this the modern misinterpretative title derives.

"A GREAT GULF"

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Does not your leading article to-day seriously misrepresent the views of Sir Basil Brooke as reported by you on your front page? Your article says that he "declares that the gulf between the two Irish States has been widened," whereas your report shows indisputably that he insisted on the "unity of Northern Ireland with Britain." Does not your paraphrase attribute to Sir Basil Brooke words that he did not, in fact, use, and a view of the position of Northern Ireland which is not his—if we are to judge from his own words—and which legally and constitutionally is quite fallacious?

There are not "two Irish States" in Ireland. There is Ireland (or Eire), and there is a portion of "the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland," wherein British statute law prevails and British officials administer some of the most important local services of a sovereign or independent State, such as Customs and Excise, Post Office, etc. I suggest that it was upon this aspect that Sir Basil Brooke was insisting.—Yours, etc.,

HENRY HARRISON.

HOW TO MAKE GOOD COFFEE
IT'S THE DATE OF THE ROAST THAT MATTERS MOST!

Fresh as the morning breeze, Pak Coffee is just as stimulating. Start the day with Pak for breakfast, notice how much better everything tastes—that fresh egg, that crisp piece of bacon. Fresh food demands fresh coffee, and Pak is the only dated brand. 1/4 per ½ lb. from your grocer.

It's so easy to make. Just follow the directions illustrated on each packet.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

without Calomel—and you'll jump out of bed in the morning full of vim and vigour.

The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk, and the world looks punk.

Laxatives help a little, but a mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pints of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 1/3 and 3/-.

His hair puts years on him . . .

That's the tragic thing about lack of hair care. It makes you look years older than you are. And, nowadays, no one, old or young, can afford that. So, if your hair is adding to your age—making you look too old—get Mutesco without delay. This famous Monastery hair tonic speedily overcomes most hair troubles — restores the original colour, stops falling, promotes vigorous growth, cures baldness and positively eradicates dandruff that forerunner of all hair troubles. If your hair is "putting years on you," get Mutesco to-day. From chemists, 1/9 and 3/3.

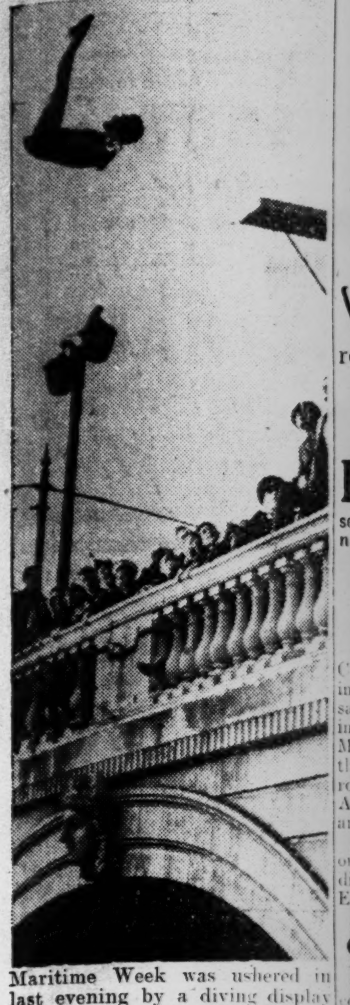
AQUATICS IN LIFFEY



Maritime Week was ushered in last evening by a diving display given by Mr. E. Heron, Irish diving champion, from O'Connell Bridge, which was witnessed by a big crowd. Also there were demonstrations of rescuing ship-wrecked persons opposite Aston's quay, and a challenge swimming race between the Maritime Inscription and the Rest of Leinster.

WITHDRAWAL IN BURMA

"BRITISH troops have abandoned Maungdaw, on the Arakan coast, and withdrawn northwards to new positions without interference by the enemy," says a New Delhi communiqué, which added, "Our new positions are more suitable for defence."

R.A.F. fighters attacked Japanese water transport between Akyab and Ramree Islands and on the Mayu river again on Thursday, and Liberators bombed the airfield at Heho by night. U.S. bombers hit railway yards at Mandalay and the bridge at Nyitnge, Central Burma. No Allied aircraft were lost.

A communiqué from Japanese headquarters in Hunan, yesterday quoted by Tokyo radio, states that Japanese forces have annihilated some four divisions of Chinese in fighting on the shores of Lake Tungting. Another five Chinese divisions have been encircled in the sector north of the Tsingshih Lihsien, and these are now being mopped up, the communiquè adds.—(Reuter.)

Heavy fighting is going on along the western shore of Lake Tungting, set in Hunân's rich rice areas, where Japanese forces are driving against the highway to the important city of Changteh, says last night's Chinese communiquè, issued in Chungking.
